

Call for Papers

Language Technology for the Knowledge-based Economy

The 22nd International Conference on the Computer Processing of Oriental Languages (ICCPOL 2009)

Hong Kong, March 26-27, 2009

(Website: <http://www.comp.polyu.edu.hk/~iccpol09>)

Hosted by

Chinese and Oriental Languages Computer Society (COLCS)

Organized by

The Hong Kong Polytechnic University

The Chinese University of Hong Kong

City University of Hong Kong

Supported by

Asian Federation of Natural Language Processing (AFNLP) (to be confirmed)

Department of Computing, The Hong Kong Polytechnic University, Hong Kong

Department of Systems Engineering and Engineering Management (SEEM), The Chinese University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong

Centre for Language Technology, Macquarie University, Australia

Publication Sponsor

LNCS/LNAI Series, Springer

INTRODUCTION

The International Conference on the Computer Processing of Oriental Languages (ICCPOL) series is a regular international conference supported by the Chinese and Oriental Languages Society (COLCS), an international society founded in 1975. Recent ICCPOLs have been held in Hong Kong (1997), Tokushima, Japan (1999), Seoul, Korea (2001), Shenyang, China (2003), and Singapore (2006). This conference will be the 22nd gathering.

The conference serves as an international forum for linguists, computer scientists, information engineers and system users with interests in the computer processing and understanding of Oriental languages. Topics of interest include, but are not limited to:

- Cross- and multilingual information processing
- Text input methods
- Document analysis and character recognition
- Natural language processing
- Machine translation
- Information retrieval and extraction
- Question-answering
- Text Summarization
- Multilingual computing
- Speech recognition and synthesis

- Language resources and evaluation
- Text mining and knowledge discovery
- Web-based applications
- E-commerce, education and entertainment

Original papers presenting innovative ideas, design principles, theoretical analysis, implementation techniques, programming concepts, and experimental results are solicited.

SUBMISSION GUIDELINES

The proceedings of the conference are planned to be published as a volume in the Springer LNCS/LNAI series. All submissions must therefore be formatted in accordance with the standard Springer style sheets ([LaTeX] [Microsoft Word]) and should be no more than 12 pages in length. Submissions should be in PDF format. Papers should be submitted electronically via: <http://www.comp.polyu.edu.hk/~iccpol09>.

Selected best papers will be invited for publication in a special issue of the International Journal in Computer Processing of Languages (IJCPOL).

Important Dates

Paper submission: September 26, 2008

Notification: November 17, 2008

Camera Ready: December 29, 2008

Date of Conference: March 26-27, 2009.

Authors should specify a preference for ORAL or POSTER presentation.

For more information about paper submission, please contact the Program Committee Co-chairs: Dr. Wenjie Li at cswjli@comp.polyu.edu.hk or Dr. Diego Molla at diego@ics.mq.edu.au.

CONFERENCE ORGANIZATION

Honorary Chairs:

Bonnie Dorr, University of Maryland, USA (2008 President, ACL) [to be invited]

Jong Hyeok Lee, POSTECH, Korea (President, COLCS)

Elizabeth D. Liddy, Syracuse University, USA (Chair, ACM SIGIR) [to be invited]

Jun-Ichi Tsujii, University of Tokyo Japan (President, AFNLP)

Conference Co-Chairs:

Qin Lu, The Hong Kong Polytechnic University, Hong Kong

Robert Dale, Macquarie University, Australia

Program Co-Chairs:

Wejje Li, The Hong Kong Polytechnic University, Hong Kong

Diego Molla, Macquarie University, Australia

Local Organization Chair

Grace Ngai, The Hong Kong Polytechnic University, Hong Kong

Publication Chair:

Kit Chung Yu, The City University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong

Website: <http://www.comp.polyu.edu.hk/~iccpol09>